Day 1: Embark the m/v Tere Moana in Philipsburg, St. Maarten

The smallest island in the world to have been partitioned between two nations (France and the Netherlands), St. Martin/St. Maarten has prospered in peaceful coexistence for nearly 350 years. Embark the m/v Tere Moana on the Dutch side of the island, St. Maarten, and enjoy time at leisure in its historic capital, renowned for its pastel-colored buildings, flower-filled courtyards, wealth of dining venues, and lively nightlife. The ship sets sail late in the evening.

Days 2-9: At Sea

A transatlantic crossing is one of the great traditions of cruising. The advent of the steamship during the 19th century made seafaring far safer than the sailing vessels of old and helped pave the way for the Golden Age of travel at the turn of the century. It was during this era that the idea of travel for pleasure was popularized, and crossing the sea aboard a luxury ship became a destination in itself. Now you can relive this romantic era aboard a deluxe vessel that recalls the luxury of those distant days.

The m/v Tere Moana was designed with your comfort in mind, offering spacious staterooms, elegant dining areas, and a host of amenities to while away the days at sea. Enjoy a massage at the luxurious spa. Pick up a souvenir at La Boutique. Take a dip in the pool. Or simply choose to do nothing at all!

Day 10: Santa Cruz de La Palma, Canary Islands, Spain

The Moana moors today at Isla de la Palma, north westernmost of the seven Canary Islands. A paradise off the northwest coast of Africa, this archipelago boasts a unique culture that blends Spanish, African, Latin American, and European influences. In Santa Cruz de La Palma, located against a mountainous backdrop on the island's east coast, admire elegant colonial architecture, stroll a cobbled promenade lined with shops and cafés, or visit a replica of Columbus' famous ship, the Santa Maria.

Day 11: At Sea / Madeira, Portugal

Relax to the rhythms of the sea today as The Moana heads toward Madeira, the Portuguese archipelago northwest of the Canary Islands. Perhaps you'll work out at the ship's Fitness Center. Or simply curl up in a deck chair with a book from our onboard reading gallery.

Early this evening, The Moana arrives at Madeira, the archipelago's largest island. As the ship enters the stunning azure harbor of Funchal, the capital of Madeira, you'll see why the approach to the city is considered one of the two most beautiful in the world (the other being Rio de Janeiro, Brazil). In this clean, crescent-shaped city, flowers bloom year-round, exquisite scenery greets the eye at every turn, and balmy breezes blow. You'll have this evening and all day tomorrow to explore this "Floating Garden of the Atlantic."

Day 12: Madeira

You'll have a full day today to experience the charms of Madeira. Enjoy the plentiful walking trails, watersports, and dazzling shops, restaurants, and nightlife of this sophisticated urban center borne of a pirate stronghold. Or take advantage of a choice of shore excursions that reveal the island's exquisite interior.

Days 13: At Sea

Enjoy two more days at leisure to experience the amenities of The Moana. Perhaps enjoy a live performance by our onboard pianist, or watch a movie on the private DVD player in your stateroom. And linger with new friends over an elegant meal in one of the ship's two dining venues.

Day 14: Lisbon, Portugal

Lisbon was the departure point for Portuguese explorers during the 15th century's "Age of Discovery," and monuments to this golden era may be seen in the city's historic center, which was built on seven hills and can be reached only by funicular or elevator. These include the Tower of Belém and Jeronimos Monastery, which together are a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Another highlight of the city is Monsanto Park, one of the largest urban parks in the world.

Day 15: Disembark in Lisbon, Portugal

One of the oldest cities in the world, Lisbon is the capital of Portugal and its largest city. It is also the westernmost capital in Europe—and one of the most beautiful capitals on the continent. Disembark The Moana here this morning, cherishing the memories of your classic voyage.
