Day 6:*Samarkand

Samarkand has witnessed a lot of upheavals during the times of Alexander the Great (Macedonian), the Arabic Conquest, Ghengis-Khan Conquest and lastly Tamerlane's. Hence, Samarkand's culture was developed and mixed together with the Iranian, Indian, Mongolian and a bit of the Western and Eastern cultures. FD SS tour of Samarkand: Registan Square (meaning "sandy place") became an official centre of Samarkand since Tamerlane the Great's time. The Square is surrounded by the Ulugbek's madrassah (1417-1420), the Sher-Dor madrassah (1619-1636), and Tilla-Kori madrassah (1646-1660); Mosque Bibi-Khanum (named in honor of Timur's eldest and favorite wife); Siab bazaar, a colorful main farmers' market; Necropolis Shakh-Zinda and ensemble of mausoleums of the 11th-19th centuries (According to the legend, the ensemble was erected around the grave of Kussam, a son of Abbas and cousin of Mohammed). Dinner at local restaurant.

Day 7:Samarkand - Tashkent

In the morning visit to Afrosiab museum of the city foundation, Observatory of Ulugbek (Ulugbek, Timur the Great's grandson, was the founder of the unique constructions of the observatory (1428-1429); a visit to Samarkand Handmade Silk Paper Center "Meros" which has been making paper since the 8th century. Samarkand was the first city in Central Asia (and the second in the world!) to produce its own paper. By the middle of the 19th century, its silk paper virtually disappeared. Here at MEROS the artisans have revived this ancient tradition and reintroduced Samarkand Paper to the world; Gur-Emir Mausoleum (graves of Tamerlane and his descendants, 15c). Transfer to railway station for high-speed train "Afrosiab" Samarkand/Tashkent at 17h00/19h10. Upon arrival transfer to the hotel. Dinner at local restaurant.
